welcome

warm [cool /qualified/, enthusiastic] welcome - горячий [сдержанный, восторженный] приём to find a ready welcome - быть радушно принятым

they were accorded a hearty welcome - им был оказан сердечный приём to overstay one's welcome - злоупотреблятьгостеприимством, надоедать хозяевам (о еосте)

2. приветствие

to bid welcome - приветствовать (гостя)

2. ['welkəm] a

1. желанный, приятный, долгожданный

welcome guest - желанный /дорогой/ гость

welcome letter [news, rest] - долгожданное письмо [известие, -ый отдых]

welcome gift - ценный для кого-л. подарок welcome suggestion - удачное /уместное, приемлемое/ предложение

he is always welcome in our home - мы всегда ему рады to make smb. welcome - радушно принять кого-л.

2. (to) predic

1) имеющий право или разрешение сделать что-л., воспользоваться чем-л.

you are welcome to any book in my library - можете взять любую книгу из моей библиотеки you are welcome to (use) my car - мой автомобильк вашим услугам

2) ирон. вольный, вправе сделать что-л

he is welcome to it /to try/ - пусть попытается сделать это you are welcome to your opinion - можете оставаться при своём мнении, думайте, что хотите he is welcome to any illusion he may have - он волен питать какие угодно иллюзии

◊ you are welcome - пожалуйста (в ответ на выражение благодарности)

3. ['welkəm] v

1. приветствовать (гостя); радушно принимать to welcome smb. at one's home - радушно принимать кого-л. у себя (в доме)

2. приветствовать одобрять

to welcome a suggestion - приветствовать предложение

3. (by, with) встретить (чем-л.)

to welcome with a hail of bullets - встретить градом пуль

4. ['welkəm] int

добро пожаловать!, милости просим!

welcome to Edinburgh! - добро пожаловать в Эдинбург!

welcome

Oxford Advanced Learners Dictionary 8th Ed.

wel-come [welcome welcomes welcomed welcoming] verb adjective, noun, exclamation BrE ['welkəm] ^{} NAmE ['welkəm] ^{}

verb

1. transitive, intransitive to say hello to sb in a friendly way when they arrive somewhere

- ~ (sb) They were at the door to welcome us.
- a welcoming smile
- ~ sb to sth It is a pleasure to welcome you to our home.
- 2. transitive ~ sb to be pleased that sb has come or has joined an organization, activity, etc
- They welcomed the new volunteers with open arms (= with enthusiasm).

3. transitive ~ sth to be pleased to receive or accept sth

- I'd welcome any suggestions.
- I warmly welcome this decision.
- In general, the changes they had made were to be welcomed.

Verb forms: verb forms

present simple
I / you / we /they	welcome
	BrE / 'welkam/
	NAmE / welkam/
he / she /it	welcomes
	BrE / 'welkamz/
	NAmE /'welkamz/
past simple, past participle	welcomed
	BrE / 'welkamd/
	NAmE /'welkemd/
-ing form	welcoming
	BrE / 'welkamm/
	NAmE / welkamin/

Word Origin:

Old English wilcuma 'a person whose coming is pleasing', wilcumian (verb), from wil- 'desire, pleasure' + cuman 'come'. The first element was later changed to wel- 'well', influenced by Old French bien venu or Old Norse velkominn.

Example Bank:

- · Economists cautiously welcomed the president's initiative.
- Foreign bankers and economists cautiously welcomed the minister's initiative.
- He welcomed us into the club.
- If you visit our town you will be warmly welcomed.
- Many companies have warmly welcomed these changes in legislation.
- The proposals have been widely welcomed.
- The school is preparing to welcome the new intake of students.
- The whole family turned out to welcome him back.
- We are delighted to welcome you to our company.
- · We positively welcome applications from all sections of the community.
- I'd welcome any suggestions.
- She gave me a welcoming smile.
- They welcomed the new volunteers with open arms.

Idioms: [†]outstay your welcome = [†]you're welcome

adjective

1. that you are pleased to have, receive, etc

- · a welcome sight
- Your letter was very welcome.
- The fine weather made a welcome change .
- 2. (of people) accepted or wanted somewhere
- Children are always welcome at the hotel.
- Our neighbours made us welcome as soon as we arrived
- I had the feeling we were not welcome at the meeting.
- a welcome guest
- 3. ~ to do sth (informal) used to say that you are happy for sb to do sth if they want to
 - They're welcome to stay here as long as they like.
- You're welcome to use the pool.
- 4. ~ to sth (informal) used to say that you are very happy for sb to have sth because you definitely do not want it
 - It's an awful job. If you want it, you're welcome to it !

Word Origin:

Old English wilcuma 'a person whose coming is pleasing', wilcumian (verb), from wil- 'desire, pleasure' + cuman 'come'. The first element was later changed to wel- 'well', influenced by Old French bien venu or Old Norse velkominn.

Example Bank:

- He made it plain that Holman's interest in his business affairs was not entirely welcome.
- New members are welcome to the club.
- The 1% rate cut is extremely welcome.
- They made us very welcome in their home.
- Visitors are always welcome.
- · You are perfectly welcome to stay here, if you don't mind the mess.
- · You are perfectly welcome to stay here: I can't offer five-star accommodation, that's all.
- · You would be a most welcome guest.

noun

1. countable, uncountable something that you do or say to sb when they arrive, especially sth that makes them feel you are happy to see them

- Thank you for your warm welcome
- The winners were given an enthusiastic welcome when they arrived home.
- a speech/smile of welcome
- $\ensuremath{\cdot}$ to receive a hero's welcome
- 2. countable the way that people react to sth, which shows their opinion of it
- $\ensuremath{\cdot}$ This new comedy deserves a $\ensuremath{\textit{warm}}$ $\ensuremath{\textit{welcome}}$.
- The proposals were given a cautious welcome by the trade unions.

Word Origin:

Old English wilcuma 'a person whose coming is pleasing', wilcumian (verb), from wil- 'desire, pleasure' + cuman 'come'. The first element was later changed to wel- 'well', influenced by Old French bien venu or Old Norse velkominn.

Example Bank:

- A big welcome to our special guest, James Greenan.
- A warm welcome awaits you at this family-run hotel.
- Sensing that he had outstayed his welcome, he quickly left.
- · Sensing that he had outstayed his welcome, he quickly said his goodbyes and left.
- She got a hero's welcome on her return from the Olympics.
- She held out her arms in welcome.
- Thank you for those words of welcome.
- The audience gave the band a rousing welcome.

- The proposal received a cautious welcome from the Opposition.
- The proposals have been given a broad welcome by green campaigners.
- They received a cold welcome to their new home.
- Ellen received a hero's welcome on returning to her home town.
- · Her wrinkled face broke into a smile of welcome.
- Thank you for your warm welcome.
- This new comedy deserves a warm welcome.

exclamation used as a ¹greeting to tell sb that you are pleased that they are there

- Welcome home!
- Welcome to Oxford!
- Good evening everybody. Welcome to the show!

Word Origin:

Old English wilcuma 'a person whose coming is pleasing', wilcumian (verb), from wil- 'desire, pleasure' + cuman 'come'. The first element was later changed to wel- 'well', influenced by Old French bien venu or Old Norse velkominn.

welcome

I. wel come¹ S2 W2 /'welkəm/ BrE AmE verb [transitive]

[Word Family: adjective: \uparrow welcome $\neq \uparrow$ unwelcome, \uparrow welcoming; verb. \uparrow welcome; noun: \uparrow welcome]

1. to say hello in a friendly way to someone who has just arrived SYN greet:

- I must be there to welcome my guests.
- They welcomed us warmly.
- His family welcomed me with open arms (=in a very friendly way).

2. to be glad to accept something:

- The college welcomes applications from people of all races.
- We would welcome any advice or suggestions with open arms.
- 3. to be glad that something has happened because you think it is a good idea:
 - Economists have welcomed the decision to raise interest rates.

AmE * II. welcome ² S2 W3 BrE adjective

[Word Family: adjective: \uparrow welcome $\neq \uparrow$ unwelcome, \uparrow welcoming; verb: \uparrow welcome; noun: \uparrow welcome]

1. if someone is welcome in a place, other people are glad that they are there:

- I had the feeling I wasn't really welcome.
- I didn't feel welcome in the club.
- Mary made us very welcome.
- We try to make the new students feel welcome.
- 2. if something is welcome, you enjoy it because you feel that you need it:
 - The weekend was a welcome break from the pressures of work.
 - Six months in Scotland would make a welcome change from London.
 - A cup of tea would be very welcome.

3. if something is welcome, you are glad that it has happened:

- The increase in interest rates is welcome news for investors.
- This new funding will come as a welcome boost for the industry.

4. be welcome to something spoken used to say that someone can have something if they want it, because you certainly do not want it:

If you want to take the job you're welcome to it!

5. be welcome to do something spoken used to invite someone to do something if they would like to:

- You're welcome to stay for lunch.
- 6. you're welcome! spoken a polite way of replying to someone who has just thanked you for something:
- 'Thanks for the coffee.' 'You're welcome.'
 III. welcome ³ BrE [#] AmE [#] noun [singular]

[Word Family: adjective: \uparrow welcome $\neq \uparrow$ unwelcome, \uparrow welcoming; verb. \uparrow welcome; noun: \uparrow welcome]

1. the way in which you greet someone when they arrive at a place

warm/friendly welcome

- His colleagues gave him a very warm welcome when he returned to work.
- You can be sure of a friendly welcome at all our hotels.
- The president got a tremendous welcome at the airport.

2. the way in which people react to an idea, and show that they like it or do not like it:

- Politicians have given an enthusiastic welcome to the Queen's speech.
- The proposals have so far received a cautious welcome from government ministers.

3. outstay/overstay your welcome to stay at someone's house longer than they want you to

. . . COLLOCATIONS

adjectives

- a warm/friendly welcome You can be sure of a warm welcome.
- a big welcome They had planned a big welcome for Martin.
- a great welcome (=a big or good welcome) Visitors were given a great welcome.
- a rapturous welcome (=a very pleased and excited one) He returned to his homeland to a rapturous welcome in 1996

Longman DOCE 5th Ed. (En-En)

- a tumultuous welcome (=a very noisy one from a crowd) The Pope received a tumultuous welcome.
- a rousing welcome (=a noisy welcome that shows approval) The audience gave the band a rousing welcome.
- a hearty welcome (=a happy and sincere welcome) The owner offers a hearty welcome to guests.

verbs

- give somebody a welcome The Queen was given a decent welcome by the crowd.
- get/receive a welcome He received a warm welcome.

• extend /accord somebody a welcome formal (=give someone a welcome) Staff and students extended a warm welcome to visiting parents.

phrases

- a smile of welcome His wrinkled face broke into a smile of welcome.
- a speech of welcome The Mayor made a brief speech of welcome.

IV. welcome ⁴ BrE ^{*} AmE ^{*} interjection

[Language: Old English; Origin: wilcume, from wilcuma 'person you are glad to have as a guest', from willa (\Rightarrow [†]will²) + cuma 'someone who comes'; influenced by well]

used to greet someone who has just arrived

welcome to

- Welcome to London!
- Welcome back it's good to see you again.
- Hello, welcome home.

welcome

Freakuency Pack

₁₂₅₀₀1687^{MCW}

15000 1136COCA RANGE: 1k WELCOME 40338 welcome 31674 welcomed 4011 welcomes 1242 welcoming 2337 unwelcome 1074 COCA 500k Unlemmatized 11001 2393 17815 vv0 7006 4770 8178 jj 2545 10570 2853 nn1 2592 10698 2805 vvi

1816479523 nnu