

tribunal[traɪˈbjuːn(ə)l] n

- суд; трибунал
tribunal of commerce - коммерческий суд; суд по торговым делам
the tribunal of public opinion - суд общественного мнения before the tribunal of conscience - перед судом совести to appear /to be brought/ before a tribunal - предстать перед судом
- место судьи (на судебном заседании)
- уст.* комиссия по освобождению от призыва в армию

tribunal

Oxford Advanced Learners Dictionary 8th Ed.

tri·bu·nal [tribunal tribunals] BrE [traɪˈbjuːnəl] NAme [traɪˈbjuːnəl] noun

countable + singular or plural verb

a type of court with the authority to deal with a particular problem or disagreement

- an international war crimes tribunal
- a military tribunal

see also ↑industrial tribunalWord Origin:late Middle English (denoting a seat for judges): from Old French, or from Latin tribunal 'raised platform provided for magistrate's seats', from tribunus, literally 'head of a tribe', from tribus 'tribe'. The current sense dates from the early 20th cent.Example Bank:

- A war crimes tribunal was set up to prosecute those charged with atrocities.
- He could face a military tribunal.
- He stood trial before an international tribunal.
- He was put on trial by military tribunal.
- No legal aid was available to cover representation before tribunals.
- She told the tribunal that she was a victim of sex discrimination.
- She took her case to a tribunal.
- The case was referred to an industrial tribunal.
- The case went to a tribunal.
- The conspirators were tried by a military tribunal and found guilty.
- The disciplinary tribunal upheld an earlier ruling.
- The dismissed workers decided to go to a tribunal.
- The dispute was settled by a tribunal.
- The employer must satisfy the tribunal on several matters.
- The fee for the player will be decided by tribunal.
- The police gave evidence at the tribunal.
- The tribunal found for her employers.
- The tribunal held its first session later that month.
- The tribunal sentenced him to twenty years in prison.
- The tribunal was entitled to reach this conclusion.
- an employment tribunal claim
- He lost his appeal against the decision at an industrial tribunal.
- She was brought before a military tribunal to explain her conduct.

tribunal

Longman DOCE 5th Ed. (En-En)

tri·bu·nal /traɪˈbjuːnəl/ BrE AmE noun [countable]

[Date: 1400-1500; Language: Latin; Origin: 'platform for judges', from tribunus; ⇨ ↑tribune]

a type of court that is given official authority to deal with a particular situation or problem:

The case of your redundancy will be heard by an independent tribunal.

⇨ ↑industrial tribunal

tribunal

Freakuency Pack

12500 3399^{MCW}15000 5177^{COCA}RANGE: 4k TRIBUNAL ²⁹¹²tribunal ²²⁸⁷tribunals ⁶²⁵

COCA 500k Unlemmatized

803 12384²²⁸⁰ *nn1*7 317912⁷ nnu