```
allegedly
                                                                                                                Apresyan (En-Ru)
[ə'ledzıdlı] adv
 по утверждению (обыкн. голословному); как утверждают (обыкн. о том, что не соответствует действительности);
 будто бы, якобы
  allegedly difficult [impossible, successful] - якобы трудный [невозможный, успешный] he allegedly lost consciousness - он будто бы /как утверждают/ потерял сознание he is allegedly a liar - говорят, что он лжец
allegedly
                                                                                     Oxford Advanced Learners Dictionary 8th Ed.
al·leged·ly BrE [əˈledʒɪdli] , NAmE [əˈledʒɪdli]
                                                     adverb
 · crimes allegedly committed during the war
    Main entry: †allege<sub>derived</sub>
allegedly
                                                                                                 Longman DOCE 5th Ed. (En-En)
al leg ed ly /ə'ledzədli, ə'ledzidli/ BrE
                                                   adverb [sentence adverb] formal AmE *
  used when reporting something that people say is true, although it has not been proved:
         a sports car, allegedly stolen in Manchester
allegedly
                                                                                                                Freakuency Pack
  <sub>12500</sub>5943<sup>MCW</sup>
  15000 1530 COCA
  RANGE: 4k ALLEGE 26518
   allege 653
    alleges 814
    alleged 9172
    allegedly 5761
    alleging 1095
    allegation 1657
    allegations 7366
  COCA 500k Unlemmatized
```

<sub>4297</sub>6311<sup>5761</sup> rr