Goal, objective or target? Goals usually relate to a person or organization's long-term plans. Targets are usually specific figures, such as a number of sales, that are set officially, for example by an employer or a government committee. People often set their own objectives that they wish to achieve, for example as part of a project, campaign or piece of writing.

Synonyms:

target

objective • goal • object • end

These are all words for sth that you are trying to achieve.

target • a result that you try to achieve ■ Set yourself targets that you can reasonably hope to achieve. ♦ attainment targets in schools objective • (rather formal) something that you are trying to achieve: • What is the main objective of this project?

goal • something that you hope to achieve: • He continued to pursue his goal of becoming an actor.

target, objective or goal?

A target is usually officially recorded in some way, for example by an employer or by a government committee. It is often specific, and in the form of figures, such as number of sales or exam passes, or a date. People often set their own objectives: these are things that they wish to achieve, often as part of a project or a talk they are giving. Goals are often long-term, and relate to people's life and career plans or the long-term plans of a company or organization.

object • the purpose of sth; sth that you plan to achieve: The object is to educate people about road safety.

end • something that you plan to achieve ■ He joined the society for political ends. That's only OK if you believe that ■ the end justifies the means ■ (= bad methods of doing sth are acceptable if the final result is good) ■.

End is usually used in the plural or in particular fixed expressions.
