

learner['lɜːnə] n

учащийся, ученик

advanced learner - хорошо подготовленный, продвинутый ученик learner driver - водитель-ученик; человек, ещё не получивший водительских прав

he is a quick learner - он способный ученик

learner

Oxford Advanced Learners Dictionary 8th Ed.

learn·er [learner learners] BrE ['lɜːnə(r)] AmE ['lɜːrnər] noun

1. a person who is finding out about a subject or how to do sth
 - a slow/quick learner
 - a dictionary for learners of English
 - learner-centred teaching methods
 - young/adult learners
 - a language learner
2. (also learner 'driver) a person who is learning to drive a car
 - Learners are not allowed on the motorway.

See also: ↑learner driver

Example Bank:

- The book has been written with the interests of young learners in mind.
- a book for advanced learners of English
- I was a slow learner — I couldn't read until I was 14.
- On windsurfers, children are particularly quick learners.
- The learner driver often grips the wheel too tightly.
- There's a proposal that drivers supervising a learner should be at least 21.

learner

Longman DOCE 5th Ed. (En-En)

learn·er /'lɜːnə/$'lɜːrnər BrE AmE noun [countable][Word Family: noun: ↑learner, ↑learning, unlearn; verb: ↑learn; adverb: ↑learnedly; adjective: ↑learned]

1. someone who is learning to do something learner of

- a new dictionary for learners of business English
- the needs of slow learners
- attractive grammar books for adult learners

2. (also learner driver) British English someone who is learning to drive a car

•••

COLLOCATIONS■ ADJECTIVES/NOUN + learner

- a slow learner (=someone who learns things slowly) The computer program means that slow learners can practise as long as they need to.
- a quick/fast learner (=someone who learns things quickly) She was a quick learner, and her English got better day by day.
- a an adult learner Many adult learners also work full-time.
- a a young learner (=a learner who is a child) The activities are good for young learners.
- a an intermediate learner These exercises are designed for intermediate learners.
- a an advanced learner Mastering idioms and phrasal verbs is frequently the greatest challenge facing the advanced learner of English.
- a a foreign learner Foreign learners of English often find it difficult to hear the unstressed parts of a word.
- a a language learner a textbook for language learners

■ learner + NOUN

- a a learner driver Learner drivers often tend to grip the steering wheel too tightly.

■ phrases

- the needs of the learner The language in the coursebook is controlled to meet the needs of the learner.

•••

THESAURUS

- student someone who is studying at a university or school. In British English, student is not usually used to refer to a child at primary school: a student at Moscow University | How many students are there in your class? | The university has a lot of overseas students. | Most schools have special classes for students with learning difficulties.
- pupil especially British English someone who is being taught in a particular school or by a particular teacher: The school has 300 pupils. | He received a letter from one of his former pupils.
- schoolchild a child who goes to school: The play was performed by a group of local schoolchildren.
- schoolboy/schoolgirl especially British English a boy or girl who goes to school – used especially when talking about how they behave, or that time in someone's life: They were behaving like naughty schoolgirls. | When he was a schoolboy, no one had heard of computers. | He blushed at her like a schoolboy.
- learner someone who is learning a foreign language: Learners often have problems with pronunciation. | a book for foreign learners of English

learner12500 4988^{MCW}15000 276^{COCA}RANGE: 1k LEARN 168660

learn 55012

learned 49044

learner 2055

learners 3712

learning 56114

learns 2499

learnt 224

COCA 500k Unlemmatized

849 13247²⁰⁵⁵ nn1