Which Word?:

lastly / at last

Lastly is used to introduce the last in a list of things or the final point you are making: • Lastly, I would like to thank my parents for all their support.

At last is used when something happens after a long time, especially when there has been some difficulty or delay: • At last, after twenty hours on the boat, they arrived at their destination. You can also use finally, eventually or in the end with this meaning, but not lastly.

Example Bank:

· We finished the last of the milk at breakfast.

Which Word?:

last / take

Last and take are both used to talk about the length of time that something continues.

Last is used to talk about the length of time that an event continues: = How long do you think this storm will last? \diamondsuit = The movie lasted over two hours. Last does not always need an expression of time: = His annoyance won't last. Last is also used to say that you have enough of something: = We don't have enough money to last until next month.

Take is used to talk about the amount of time you need in order to go somewhere or do something. It must be used with an expression of time: = It takes (me) at least an hour to get home from work. \diamondsuit = How long will the flight take? \diamondsuit = The water took ages to boil.
