

pathological

[ˌpæθəˈlɒdʒɪk(ə)l]

1. патологический
2. редк. эмоциональный, страстный

pathological

Oxford Advanced Learners Dictionary 8th Ed.

patho·logic·al [pathological pathologically] BrE [ˌpæθəˈlɒdʒɪkəl] NAmE

[ˌpæθəˈlɒdʒɪkəl] adjective

1. not reasonable or sensible; impossible to control
 - pathological fear/hatred/violence
 - a pathological liar (= a person who cannot stop telling lies)
2. caused by, or connected with, disease or illness
 - pathological depression
3. (technical) connected with ↑pathology

Derived Word ↑pathologically

Example Bank:

- her almost pathological fear of being alone

pathological

Longman DOCE 5th Ed. (En-En)

patho·log·ical /ˌpæθəˈlɒdʒɪkəl $ -ˈlɑː-/ BrE " AmE " adjective

1. pathological behaviour or feelings happen regularly, and are strong, unreasonable, and impossible to control:
 - " a pathological hatred of women
 - " a pathological liar
 2. a mental or physical condition that is pathological is caused by disease:
 - " pathological conditions such as cancer
 3. relating to pathology
- pathologically /-kli/ adverb:
- " Stephen was almost pathologically jealous of his brother.

pathological

Freakuency Pack

12500 8522^{MCW}15000 8364^{COCA}RANGE: 7k PATHOLOGICAL ¹⁰⁶³pathological ⁹⁵²pathologically ¹¹¹

COCA 500k Unlemmatized

679 21885⁹⁴³ *jj*5 389812⁵ *np1*4 443714⁴ nnu